NEWS RELEASE

ANGLOGOLD ASHANTI TRADING STATEMENT FOR THE HALF YEAR ENDED 30 JUNE 2017

AngloGold Ashanti will release results for the half year ended 30 June 2017 (“the period”) on the Johannesburg Stock Exchange News Service on 21 August 2017.

With reference to the Listings Requirements of the JSE Limited, issuers are required to publish a trading statement as soon as they become reasonably certain that the financial results for the period to be reported on next will differ by at least 20% from those of the previous corresponding reporting period.

Expected headline loss and basic loss

Shareholders are advised that the Company has reasonable certainty that the headline loss for the period is expected to be between $80 million and $98 million, with a headline loss per share of between 19 cents and 23 cents. Headline earnings and headline earnings per share (“HEPS”) for the half year ended 30 June 2016 (“comparative period”) were $93 million and 23 cents, respectively.

The basic loss is expected to be between $167 million and $185 million, with the basic loss per share between 41 cents and 45 cents. Basic earnings and earnings per share (“EPS”) for the comparative period were $52 million and 13 cents, respectively.

The expected overall decrease in headline earnings and basic earnings in the first six months of the year relative to the comparative period were primarily due to:

- impairment of certain of the South African assets affecting basic earnings amounting to $86 million (post-tax) or 21 cents per share;
- once-off non cash provisions arising from the potential retrenchment costs relating to the South African operations of $47 million (post-tax) or 11 cents per share and the estimated costs of the settlement of silicosis class action claims and related expenditure (see below), which amounted to $46 million (post-tax) or 11 cents per share;
- higher operating costs due primarily to the impact of stronger local currencies in South Africa and Brazil, inflation and changes in inventories; and
- lower income from associates and joint ventures.
Operational performance

Production is expected to be 1.748 Moz for the period compared to 1.745 Moz in the prior period. Notably, the Company achieved a stronger production performance in the second quarter of the year of 918,000 oz compared to the 830,000 oz in the first quarter, an increase of 10.6%.

Section 189 process in the South African region

During the period, AngloGold Ashanti made the difficult decision to begin a consultation process with employees in terms of section 189 and 189A of the Labour Relations Act, with respect to restructuring certain of its South African business units, in order to ensure the viability of its South African business as a whole. This follows a review of the options to safely turn around the performance of these loss-making operations.

As a consequence, the Company has recorded an impairment of certain of its South African assets amounting to $86 million (post-tax) or 21 cents per share. These impairments are non-cash in nature and are included in the calculation of basic earnings and EPS, but excluded from the calculation of headline earnings and HEPS for the period.

Silicosis provision

Class action

Occupational Diseases in Mines and Works Act (ODMWA) litigation - On 3 March 2011, in Mankayi vs. AngloGold Ashanti, the Constitutional Court of South Africa held that section 35(1) of the Compensation for Occupational Injuries and Diseases Act, 1993 does not cover an “employee” who qualifies for compensation in respect of “compensable diseases” under ODMWA. This judgement allows such qualifying employee to pursue a civil claim for damages against the employer. Following the Constitutional Court decision, AngloGold Ashanti and members of the working group (discussed below) have been subject to numerous claims relating to silicosis and other Occupational Lung Diseases (“OLD”), including several potential class actions and individual claims.

In November 2014, Anglo American South Africa, AngloGold Ashanti, Gold Fields Limited, Harmony Gold Mining Company Limited and Sibanye Gold Limited formed an industry working group on OLD to address issues relating to compensation for OLD in the gold mining industry in South Africa. The working group now also includes African Rainbow Minerals (“ARM”). The working group remains of the view that achieving a comprehensive solution which is both fair to past, present and future employees, and sustainable for the sector, is preferable to protracted litigation. The working group will continue with its efforts – which have been ongoing for more than two years – to find common ground with all stakeholders, including government, labour and the claimants’ legal representatives.

AngloGold Ashanti, along with other mining companies including Anglo American South Africa, ARM, Gold Fields Limited, Harmony Gold Mining Company Limited, DRDGold Limited, Randgold and Exploration Company Limited, and Sibanye Gold Limited, were served with a consolidated class action application on 21 August 2013. The companies do not believe that they are liable in respect of the claims brought, and they are defending these. They do, however, believe that they should work together to seek a solution to this South African mining industry legacy issue.

On 13 May 2016, the South African South Gauteng High Court (“High Court”) ordered, among other things: (1) the certification of two classes: (a) a silicosis class comprising current and former mine workers who have contracted silicosis and the dependents of mine workers who have died of silicosis; and (b) a tuberculosis class comprising current and former mine workers who have worked on the mines for a period of not less than two years and who have contracted pulmonary tuberculosis and the dependents of deceased mine workers who died of pulmonary tuberculosis; and (2) that the common law be developed to provide that, where a claimant commences suing for general damages and subsequently dies before close of pleadings, the claim for general damages will transmit to the estate of the deceased claimant. The progression of the classes certified will be done in two phases: (i) a determination of common issues, on an opt-out basis, and (ii) the hearing and determination of individualised issues, on an opt-in basis. In addition, costs were awarded in favour of the claimants. The amount of damages has not yet been quantified for any of the claimants in the Consolidated Class Application or for any other members of the classes.

AngloGold Ashanti and the other respondents believed that the judgement addressed a number of highly complex and important issues, including a far reaching amendment of the common law, that have not previously been considered by other courts in South Africa. The High Court itself found that the scope and magnitude of the proposed claims is unprecedented in South Africa and that the class action would address novel and complex issues of fact and law. The respondents applied for leave to appeal against the judgement because they believed that the court’s ruling on some of these issues is incorrect and that another court may come to a different decision.

On 24 June 2016, the High Court granted the mining companies leave to appeal against the finding amending the common law in respect of the transmissibility of general damages claims. It refused leave to appeal on the certification of silicosis and tuberculosis classes. On 15 July 2016, AngloGold Ashanti and the other respondents each filed petitions to the Supreme Court of Appeal for leave to appeal against the certification of the two separate classes for silicosis and tuberculosis. In an attempt to shorten any delay due to an appeal process, it is permissible to request that the appeals be dealt with on an expedited basis. On 21 September 2016, the Supreme Court of Appeal granted the respondents leave to appeal against all aspects of the class certification judgement of the High Court delivered in May 2016. The appeal hearing before the Supreme Court of Appeal is scheduled to be heard from 19 – 23 March 2018.

Provision raised

As a result of the progress made by the Gold Working Group since 31 December 2016 on a variety of issues, management is now in a position to reliably estimate within an acceptable range the Company’s share of a possible settlement of the class action claims and related costs. As a result, the Company has provided for this obligation in the Statement of Financial Position as at 30 June 2017 at a discounted pre-tax amount of $63 million ($46 million post-tax) (pre-tax undiscounted amount of $77 million). The ultimate outcome of these negotiations and the court sanction of the agreement remains uncertain and accordingly the provision is subject to adjustment in the future.

The forecast financial information on which this trading statement is based has not been reviewed or reported on by AngloGold Ashanti’s external auditors.
