MARKET RELEASE

Sibanye-Stillwater notes the announcement by Anglo American Platinum regarding temporary shutdown of converter plant

Johannesburg, 6 March 2020: Sibanye-Stillwater (Tickers JSE: SSW and NYSE: SBSW) notes the announcement by Anglo American Platinum Limited (Anglo Plats), regarding the temporary shutdown of its converter plants and confirms that it has received written notification of force majeure regarding the toll agreement between Anglo Plats and Sibanye-Stillwater's Rustenburg operation and the Purchase of Concentrate (PoC) agreement with Sibanye-Stillwater's Kroondal and Platinum mine operations. Sibanye-Stillwater's Marikana and US PGM operations are not affected and will benefit from the commensurate short-term commodity price increases due to the Anglo Platinum supply disruption.

Anglo Plats has indicated that its converter plant will be unavailable for at least eight weeks, during which period the force majeure would remain in effect and it would be unable to fully process the Rustenburg, Kroondal and Platinum mine concentrate.

Sibanye-Stillwater has significant spare PGM processing capacity at the Marikana operations and at the Precious Metal Refinery in Brakpan and will be assessing how best to utilise this capacity. We are engaging with Anglo Platinum with respect to the various alternatives and will provide a further update once we have clarity.
